Conscience And Conviction The Case For Civil Disobedience ...

Conscientious moral convictions are necessary for conscience because they show that we take morality seriously. But, they're not enough for conscience because our convictions can be mistaken. Conscience, by contrast, is genuine moral responsiveness and understanding. The more we have of it, the better we understand what really matters morally.

Conscience and Conviction - 3:16

CONSCIENCE and CONVICTION. One does not have to look too far today to realize that we are living in a generation that, generally speaking, does not carry a conscience or conviction of the difference between right and wrong. Our news bulletins are full of examples of people stealing, violating people's privacy, and doing things that show that there is not much conviction that what they are doing is wrong.
