Many Globalizations Cultural Diversity In

The wide range of country studies in this book shows that while a global culture heavily influenced by US values is indeed emerging, it is not US-directed and that many non-US cultures are contributing to other subglobalization processes. In particular, globalization is not exclusively secular-materialist in character, with substantial, if underrecognized, inputs from Christian evangelism, both Protestant and Roman Catholic, as well as other religions such as Islam and Budd ...

The stereotypes of globalization--characterized as American imperialism on the one hand, and as an economic panacea on the other--fall apart under close scrutiny. Surveying globalization from individual countries of the five major continents, Many Globalizations shows that an emerging global culture does indeed exist. While globalization is American in origin and content, the authors point out that it is far from a centrally directed force like classic imperialism.
