The House Of Susan Lulham

The House of Susan Lulham ( 2014) is a crime / ghost story novella by British author Phil Rickman, what he describes as the "12 and a half" entry in his Merryly Watkins series, about a female vicar and diocesan exorcist for the cathedral city of Hereford. The Watkins stories combine supernatural and mystery elements, leading them to be classified variously as horror and crime fiction (though Rickman personally rejects the label of horror writer).

The House of Susan Lulham - Wikipedia

This book, The House of Susan Lulham, grew from a short story Rickman published in an anthology. He was encouraged to develop it into a novella and thus Merryly Watkins light was born. Of the regular recurring characters of the series, there are only four here—Merrily, of course, plus the diocesan secretary Sophie, Merrily’s mentor Huw Owen, and the police inspector Frannie Bliss.

The House of Susan Lulham is part of Phil Rickman's popular Merryly Watkins series, but is not a full-length instalment - it's a novella (around 100ish pages), currently available as a rather beautiful little hardback edition as well as an appropriate-priced Kindle Single and a three-hour audiobook download.

The House of Susan Lulham

At the start of British author Rickman's assured novella, the 13th entry in his Merryly Watkins paranormal series (after 2014's The Magus of Hay), Zoe Mahonie and her husband, Jonathan, discover that their new home in Hereford, England, was previously occupied by Susan Lulham, a hair stylist who slashed herself to death in the living room some years earlier.

An eerie novella for fans of the Merryly Watkins series The angular, modernist house was an unexpected bargain for Zoe and Jonathan Mahonie—newcomers to the city of Hereford and apparently unaware that the house's pristine, white interior walls had been coated with the lifeblood of a previous owner. How is Merryly Watkins, diocesan exorcist for Hereford, to know if Zoe Mahonie is lying or deluded when she claims that the wrathful Susan Lulham is still in residence?
